Introducing...

MANJU JASTY

With a first name derived from the Sanskrit word meaning “jewel box,” it’s fitting that former investment banker Manju Jasty found her ultimate calling as a designer of exquisite gems. The New York-based thirty-two-year-old seeks inspiration, she says, from the “effects of light in nature” and from her native India, where all her pieces are handmade. “My inclination is to highlight the natural essence of femininity.”

Manju Jasty natural-coral and diamond necklace ($110,000), at Barneys New York, NYC, 888-8-BARNEYS.
